Introduction

Congratulations on taking the first step to become certified by the American Board of Genetic Counseling, Inc. (ABGC) or recertified as an ABGC Diplomate via the examination pathway. The Certified Genetic Counselor (CGC®) credential is granted by ABGC to genetic counselors who meet established standards for professional practice through documentation of specialized training and who receive a passing score on the ABGC Certification Examination. ABGC certification is valid for five (5) years for those who certify or recertify by examination. After five years, each Diplomate is required to recertify to maintain the CGC® credential through continuing education or through examination.

This Candidate Guide contains instructions to help an individual complete the application process, pay the examination fees, and, if accepted, schedule an appointment to take the ABGC Examination. It is important to understand all requirements and carefully follow these instructions.

Missing a step or a deadline can delay or prevent an individual from being able to take the examination. If an applicant has any additional questions after reviewing this Bulletin of Information, please contact the ABGC Executive Office at 312-321-6879 or info@abgc.net.

PSI is the examination services provider for ABGC. PSI coordinates the certification application and administration processes.

What is Certification?

Certification for genetic counselors demonstrates accountability to the public through the advanced training in medical genetics and counseling to guide and support patients. Additionally, the process of achieving and maintaining certification helps to ensure that the professional is continually improving and refining skills. The continuing education process improves responsibility, commitment and motivation to the profession.

The Certified Genetic Counselor (CGC®) credential is granted to individuals who pass the American Board of Genetic Counseling (ABGC) Certification Examination. The primary qualification to sit for the examination is a master's degree in genetic counseling from a program accredited by the Accreditation Council for Genetic Counseling (ACGC).

ABGCN employs a PSI a testing company to assist with test development and statistical analysis which provides a reliable and valid examination.

What is Active Candidate Status (ACS)?

ACS signifies an individual has been approved by ABGC to take the ABGC Certification Examination in a specific time frame. ACS is only granted in certain applicant categories. Requests for ACS verification will be processed by the ABGC Executive Office once a completed application is received and processed through PSI, ABGC's testing partner. If an individual who has ACS does not successfully complete the certification within the timeframe they have been granted ACS and wishes to schedule another appointment, they must reapply through PSI and pay the examination fee.

Individuals in an applicant category for which the ACS designation is not awarded may not use the ACS designation for any purpose at any time.

General Information

The ABGC Certification Examination consists of 200 multiple-choice questions (170 scored items; 30 pre-test items). A candidate has four (4) hours to complete the examination. The candidate will be asked to select the one best answer from four options provided for each question.

The questions have been devised to test not only the candidate's recall of knowledge, but also the ability to appropriately and correctly apply and analyze information to address problems and situations encountered in the practice of genetic counseling.

The examination questions are derived from the most recent version of the Content Outline, which is based on the results of the Practice Analysis conducted by ABGC. The most recent version of the Content Outline may be accessed on the ABGC website.

Examination Categories

The examination categories listed below recognize that there are variations in the certification history of our candidates. They take into account a variety of factors such as whether the examination is being taken for initial certification or recertification, graduation date, and whether this is the first attempt or a repeat attempt. Review of the categories below will help a candidate determine, which, if any, are applicable to them. The majority of candidates will fall into either category 1 or 2.

If a candidate has any questions about the examination categories or has difficulty determining eligibility for a category, please contact the ABGC Executive Office at 312-321-6879 or info@abgc.net.

Why Are There Different Examination Categories?

The ABGC strives to keep pace with the evolution of the profession while ensuring the public has access to competent genetic counseling services. This may necessitate the creation of new, sometimes time-limited, categories and gradual discontinuation of others. The prevalence of licensure, for example, was a driving force for some changes.

Examinees who graduated from a training program accredited by ACGC may apply for eligibility to take the exam in Categories 1-3

Category 1: ACS-Eligible First Time Examinees

Category 2: ACS-Eligible Repeat Examinees

Graduates of a training program accredited by ACGC are eligible for Active Candidate Status (ACS) for five (5) years from the date of graduation (e .g., eligibility period would be 6/1/2020 – 6/1/2025 with 6/1/2020 being date of graduation.) ACS expires when the applicant successfully completes the examination or exactly five years from the date of graduation, whichever comes first. Candidates are responsible for being aware of when ACS expires and being prepared to apply for examination administration prior to that date.

Candidates applying for the ABGC examination via Category 1 must pay the fee, submit an official transcript from an accredited genetic counseling education program, and ensure their program director verifies training through the PSI portal. Official transcripts can be sent directly from the school to PSI or submitted by the student as a PDF document uploaded at the time of application. Official transcripts must state the degree and date the degree was conferred. Please be aware that transcript requests often take an educational institution several weeks to process. Request transcripts as soon as possible so they are received by PSI well before the application deadline. Unofficial transcripts will not be accepted. ABGC examination cannot be scheduled without a complete application.

Category 3: Non-ACS Attempt Examinees

Candidates that do not obtain certification within the first five years of graduation from an accredited program remain eligible to sit for the examination. However, candidates will not be granted ACS for any examination attempt in Category 3.

Former ABGC Diplomates Whose Time-limited Certification Has Lapsed

Former ABGC Diplomates whose time-limited certification has lapsed may become certified again by attempting the examination. Candidates who qualify under this category are not eligible for ACS.

ABGC Diplomates Who Choose Recertification by Examination

A Diplomate may sit for the ABGC Certification Examination during the last year of their current recertification cycle. A Diplomate must pass the examination to achieve recertification.

Failure to obtain recertification by the deadline will result in expiration of ABGC time-limited certification and loss of credential.

Category 4 : Internationally Trained Genetic Counselors Who May Be Eligible for the Examination

Internationally trained Genetic Counselors who hold a current registration/certification from an international body and who have earned a master's degree from a genetic counseling program that has achieved accreditation/ recognition from an ABGC recognized accrediting body may be eligible to apply for the examination. All applicants from countries in which the official language is not English are required to submit official evidence of English language proficiency. Applicants must achieve a minimum online TOEFL score of 94, including at least 26 on the speaking portion and 24 on the written portion.

Applicants who are determined eligible through this pathway will have three attempts within five years from the date of ABGC recognition of the accrediting body or the date of individual registration/certification, whichever is more recent.

Individuals applying under the International Pathway must submit the following documentation to the ABGC Executive Office for review:

- » Documentation from the certifying/registration body indicating when the individual was initially certified or registered, including expiration or renewal date
- » Official transcript of master's degree in genetic counseling listing the date the degree is conferred – transcripts not in English must be accompanied by an English translation; if the academic records do not include official evidence of the award of the degree, applicants must also submit additional documents that verify the degree conferral

ABGC encourages all applicants to contact state licensure boards regarding eligibility to qualify for a license to practice in the state in which they would like to work. ABGC is not responsible for, nor has any authority over, state requirements.

Non Discrimination Policy

ABGC endorses the principle of equal opportunity and nondiscrimination in its certification program and prohibits discrimination against its applicants, candidates, certified persons, staff, and volunteers. Certification is offered to all eligible persons regardless of age, gender, religion, national origin, marital status, sexual orientation or disability, or any other category protected by federal or state law. ABGC attempts to ensure fair and equitable treatment of all candidates throughout all phases of the certification process. All ABGC decisions related to certification (including granting, suspending, and withdrawing) are made impartially and free from discriminatory judgments.

Impartiality Statement

The ABGC management and its employees, volunteers, and contractors understand the importance of impartiality and the consideration of any potential conflicts of interest in carrying out its certification activities. ABGC shall manage conflicts of interest and ensure the objectivity of its certification activities. ABGC shall act impartially in relation to its applicants, candidates, and certified persons. Decisions on certification programs shall be made in accordance with established policies and procedures. Certification of individuals is based on objective evidence obtained by ABGC through a fair, valid, and reliable assessment process which is not influenced by other interests or parties. ABGC is committed to identifying and assessing risks in all related certification activities which may result in a conflict of interest or pose a threat to impartiality.

Neither ABGC nor PSI can guarantee examination appointment availability at Test Centers of the candidate's choice.

Live Remote Online Proctoring

The National Commission on Certifying Agencies (NCCA) has approved ABGC to allow examinations to be administered by Live Remote Online Proctoring as well as in PSI testing centers. The Live Remote Online Proctoring delivery method administers exams to candidates using their own computer from their home. The candidate must have a computer with a web camera that can be moved to display the entire room, a microphone, and an internet connection to download the PSI secure browser. A compatibility check of the computer's audio/video, webcam and system is required prior to scheduling.

Special Arrangements for Candidates with Disabilities

ABGC and PSI comply with the Americans with Disabilities Act and strive to ensure that no individual with a disability is deprived of the opportunity to take the examination solely due to that disability. PSI will provide reasonable accommodations for candidates with disabilities. Candidates requesting special accommodations must call PSI at 833-333-4755 to schedule their examination.

1. Wheelchair access is available at all established Test Centers. Candidates must advise PSI at the time of scheduling that wheelchair access is necessary.

Inclement Weather, Power Failure or Emergency

In the event of inclement weather or unforeseen emergencies on the day of an examination, PSI will determine whether circumstances warrant the cancellation, and subsequent rescheduling, of an examination.

A candidate may visit www.goAMP.com prior to the examination to determine if PSI has been advised that any Test Centers are closed. Every attempt is made to administer the examination as scheduled; however, should an examination be canceled at a Test Center, all scheduled candidates will receive notification regarding rescheduling or reapplication procedures.

If power to a Test Center is temporarily interrupted during an administration, your examination will be restarted. The answers provided up to the point of interruption will remain intact, but for security reasons the questions will be scrambled. Any bookmarks made prior to the interruption will not be retained. However, by using the double arrows (>>), an examinee can go through any unanswered questions. If after 30 minutes the issue is unresolved, you are able to leave the Test Center and contact PSI regarding the technical issue.

Testing At a PSI Test Center

On the day of the examination appointment, report to the Test Center no later than the scheduled testing time. Once the candidate arrives, look for the signs indicating PSI Test Center check-in. Copyrighted Examination Questions

All examination questions are the copyrighted property of ABGC. It is forbidden to copy, reproduce, record, distribute or display these examination questions by any means, in whole or in part. Doing so may subject the candidate to disciplinary action as well as legal sanctions.

Computer Login

After the candidate's identification has been confirmed, they will then be directed to a testing carrel or the remote online exam will be released. They will be instructed on-screen to enter their candidate ID number. The candidate's photograph, taken before beginning the examination, will remain on-screen throughout the examination session. This photograph will also print on the candidate's score report.

Practice Computer Testing Process

Prior to attempting the examination, the candidate will be given the opportunity to practice taking an examination on the computer. The time used for this practice examination is NOT counted as part of the examination time or score.

When the candidate is comfortable with the computer testing process, they may quit the practice session and begin the timed examination.

Timed Examination

Following the practice examination, the candidate will begin the timed examination. Before beginning, instructions for taking the examination are provided on-screen.

The computer monitors the time a candidate spends on the examination. The examination will terminate if a candidate exceeds the time allowed. They may click on the Time box in the lower right portion of the screen to monitor their time.

Candidates may return to examination questions left unanswered if time allows during their examination session. Questions may also be bookmarked for later review by clicking in the radio button below the Bookmark Title. When the examination is completed, the number of examination questions answered is reported.

If not all questions have been answered and there is time remaining, return to the examination and answer those questions. Be sure to provide an answer for each examination question before ending the examination. There is no penalty for guessing.

Candidate Comments

During the examination, comments may be provided for any question by clicking on the Comment button to the left of the Time button. This opens a text box where comments may be entered. Comments will be reviewed by ABGC, but individual responses will not be provided.

Following The Examination

After completing the examination, the candidate is asked to complete a short evaluation of the examination experience. The result will be provided on screen following the completion of the evaluation and an official score report will be sent to the email address provided during registration as a PDF after the examination session ends. The score report will show the score for the examination and a determination of the pass/fail status.

Scores Cancelled By ABGC or PSI

ABGC and PSI are responsible for the validity and integrity of the scores they report. On occasion, occurrences, such as computer malfunction or misconduct by a candidate, may cause a score to be reviewed. ABGC and PSI reserve the right to void or withhold examination results if, upon investigation, a violation of their regulations is discovered or there is reason to question the validity or integrity of scores.

Confidentiality

Information about candidates for testing and their examination results are considered confidential. Studies and reports concerning candidates will contain no identifiable information, unless authorized by the candidate.

Names of candidates who achieve certification and are awarded the Certified Genetic Counselor (CGC®) credential will be listed in the directory of ABGC Diplomates on the ABGC website www.abgc.net. Diplomates have access to send Licensure Verification Letters from the ABGC Portal.

Duplicate Score Report

A candidate may purchase additional copies of the results at a cost of $25 per copy. Requests must be submitted to PSI, in writing, within 12 months of the examination. The request must include name, candidate ID number, mailing address, telephone number and date of examination. Duplicate score reports will be mailed within approximately five business days after receipt of the request and fee. See Form, page 16.

Submit this information with the required fee payable to PSI Services Inc. in the form of a check, money order, or cashier's check.

Grievance Procedures

Individuals whose credentials are deemed unacceptable and who are not granted approval to sit for the ABGC Certification Examination have the right to seek reconsideration of ABGC's decision by submitting a written request for reconsideration, together with an explanation of the basis for the request, no later than 30 days after receipt of notice that their approval to sit was declined.

No request for reconsideration of ABGC's decision regarding certification may be based on an individual's receipt of a failing grade on the ABGC Certification Examination unless extraordinary circumstances exist as determined solely by the Board. Requests for review based on extraordinary circumstances must be received within thirty (30) days of the date of the examination.

Strategies For Answering Questions

The purpose of this section is to familiarize examinees with the format of questions, referred to as items, on the examination. It is not intended to illustrate the scope of the examination or the difficulty of individual questions.

The ABGC Certification Examination consists of 200 multiple-choice items. Of this total, 170 items are scored and 30 items are pre-test items that are being evaluated for possible inclusion on future examinations. The scored items and pre-test items are not distinguishable to the examinee. All items should be approached as if they are scored items.

All items will be in multiple-choice, one best answer format. Each item will consist of a statement, question or scenario followed by four response options. The options will be lettered A, B, C, D. The examinee is required to select the one best answer to the question. Options other than the one best (correct) answer may be partially correct, but there is only one best answer to each item. Every effort has been made to eliminate unclear or "trick" questions.

Strategies for Answering One Best Answer Single Items

- » Read each question or statement carefully . Be certain that you understand what is being asked.
- » Read each answer option carefully.
- » Look for the best choice and do not be misled by other choices that might be considered possible, but less applicable, than the answer considered correct.
- » If an option is only partially correct, tentatively eliminate it as incorrect. Of the remaining options, select the one that you believe to be most correct, and mark that answer.

Pass/Fail Score Determination

Your pass/fail result is based on your total score. Content area scores are provided to offer a general indication of your relative strengths and weaknesses in each content area. The examination is designed to provide a consistent and precise determination of your overall performance and is not designed to provide complete information regarding your performance in each content area. This information should only be used as feedback for your future educational needs.

The examination development process and scoring determination for the ABGC Certification Examination are extremely rigorous and follow industry standards. This elaborate process is designed to ensure that all candidates are treated fairly and that all pass/fail decisions are valid. This detailed process provides distinction and value to genetic counselors in the field and ensures that passing candidates have the knowledge, skills, and abilities necessary for competent practice. Additional information about this process is available on the ABGC website www.abgc.net under the "Becoming Certified" tab.

ABGC uses a criterion-referenced methodology to score examinations, which is a certification examination industry standard. With this type of scoring methodology, there is no "curve." Candidates do not compete against one another. The "bar" for performance level is the same for each candidate – minimally competent practice. In this method of scoring, it is theoretically possible for all examinees to pass the examination or for all examinees to fail the examination. Since candidates are compared to the criterion of competent practice, there is no minimum percentage of examinees that must fail the exam.

The Angoff scoring method is used to set the performance level required to pass the examination. This is the most common methodology for establishing passing scores for credentialing exams. This process was overseen by a psychometrician and was based on a combination of statistical analysis and the expert judgment of the Certification Exam Committee (CEC) to determine what constituted the minimum qualification to pass the exam. This performance level established using the Angoff method is retained with instant scoring through a statistical process known as equating.

As mentioned above, all items used to calculate a person's score on the examination have been previously used and, therefore, have known statistical performance characteristics. This information allows the CEC to develop new forms that are parallel to previous forms, with consistent levels of difficulty and score reliability. A psychometrician uses each item's statistical performance characteristics to project results on the new form, and an equitable passing score is determined. Because score equating occurs before the examination is administered, this procedure is characterized as pre-equating.

Equating controls for slight variations in difficulty can occur among multiple test forms and thus helps ensure that all candidates are held to the same standard (aka performance level). A great deal of time and effort is spent ensuring an exam's passing score is derived fairly for each examinee. Careful adherence to this process yields a rationally determined score that can be used with confidence to make pass/fail decisions. Only during the Job Analysis period, which happens every 5 years, will there be one exam window that does not offer immediate scoring.

In closing, the ABGC Certification Examination development process follows established psychometric principles and industry standards. The examination is constructed from items that are based on the actual practice of certified genetic counselors. Each item undergoes multiple reviews by certified genetic counselors and undergoes rigorous statistical analyses before it is used to determine a candidate's score. This elaborate process is designed to ensure that all candidates are treated fairly and that all pass/fail decisions are valid. In addition, the examination development process provides distinction and value to genetic counselors in the field and ensures that passing candidates have the knowledge, skills, and abilities necessary for competent practice.

The American Board of Genetic Counseling (ABGC) has the responsibility to protect its federal trademarks from infringement by unauthorized parties. The federal trademark registrations owned by the ABGC include its corporate logo and the designation CGC®. ABGC works with patent and trademark attorneys to ensure that only those who have passed the ABGC examination have the right to use the trademark designations, adding to the meaning and value of the CGC® designation. Certificants who meet ABGC's requirements for recertification are authorized to continue to use the credential. Individuals who allow their ABGC certification to expire may not use the CGC credential nor may they hold themselves out to be an ABGC certified genetic counselor.

Standard For the Designation of Certified Genetic Counselor (CGC)

ABGC is issuing guidance on how to list one's certification in response to requests from Diplomates and to allow our clients to clearly and quickly identify the individuals who have achieved certification. ABGC seeks to ensure the continued value and meaning of its registered certification mark.

Individuals who have successfully completed the ABGC certification examination may call themselves a Certified Genetic Counselor and are required to designate this certification as CGC unless otherwise mandated by state legislation. Any variation of the mark is a deviation from this standard.

ABGC values and supports the client and title protection provided by state licensure. Should you need to indicate certification and licensure in your signature, ABGC recommends that you do so as follows:

New Diplomate, MS, CGC
Licensed, Certified Genetic Counselor

Recertification Requirements & Responsibilities

ABGC recertification shows a commitment to lifelong learning and helps ensure that knowledge and skills are maintained in a rapidly evolving field. Recertification is becoming more significant for licensing, professional advancement, and employment opportunities. Once certification has been achieved, diplomates will have 5 year window beginning January 1st of the next calendar year through December 31st of the 5th year. For example: If you pass your CGC exam on August 5, 2023, your recertification cycle will begin on January 1, 2024 and end on December 31, 2029.

It is the Diplomate's responsibility to apply for recertification prior to the expiration date of their current certification. A renewal notification will be emailed to each Diplomate's current email address 1 year prior to the current certification expiration date. To ensure that you receive important information from ABGC, please review your online profile and verify current email and postal information.

Each Diplomate is responsible for:

- » Applying for recertification within the allotted timeframe
- » Updating the contact information on their ABGC online profile
- » Keeping current with ABGC policy, rules and regulations

Checklist of Documentation Needed to Apply for Each Category

Some Examination Categories require document uploads as part of the application process.

Please see below for a list of required documents.

Category 1:

Official transcript from an accredited genetic counseling education program. Transcripts can be sent directly from the school to PSI or submitted by the candidate as a PDF document uploaded at the time of application. Transcripts must state the degree and date degree was conferred.

Verification of training by the Director of the genetic counseling program from which the candidate graduated. This information will automatically be requested via PSI's Electronic Eligibility Database (EED) after the online application is completed.

For candidates who wish to be granted ACS when a degree has not yet been conferred, a letter from the Registrar/Dean stating the degree and date of conferral is required. This allows candidates to be granted ACS in order to apply for licensure. However, candidates will not be able to schedule a testing appointment until PSI receives the official final transcript stating the degree was conferred.

Category 2:

No required documents.

Category 3:

Category 3 candidates for whom their most recent examination attempt was more than 5 years ago must supply an official transcript with date and degree conferred and verification of training by the Program Director.

Recertification by Examination:

No required documents.

Lapsed Diplomate Recertification by Examination:

PSI will confirm previous certification status for lapsed Diplomates directly with ABGC.

Category 4:

International Pathway: Application materials must first be submitted to the ABGC Executive Office for review at info@abgc.net.

TOEFL score (if required).

Documentation from the certifying/registration body indicating when the individual was initially certified or registered, including expiration or renewal date.

Official transcript of master's degree in genetic counseling listing date degree conferred – transcripts not in English must be accompanied by an English translation; if the academic records do not include official evidence of the award of the degree, applicants must also submit additional documents that verify the degree conferral.
